The background features a stylized American flag with a blue field of stars and red and white stripes. A hand is shown holding a heart, symbolizing care and support.

Helping Americans with mental and substance use
conditions is important to overall health and
to our economy.

Congress agreed.

Last year—with bipartisan support—Congress passed significant mental health reforms into law, creating more accountability and resources for serious mental illness. Congress took action to address the opioid crisis. Laws and regulations strengthened mental health and addiction parity protections.

Now it's time to keep and fund those promises... and to end lingering barriers that prevent people from getting the right treatment, at the right time, in the right setting.

Continuing to focus on behavioral health innovation can make the whole health system more cost-effective and affordable, with better outcomes for everybody.

A graphic consisting of five white squares arranged in a descending staircase pattern from left to right.

Save lives, families,
and communities
with behavioral health.