Hospital-Based Inpatient Psychiatric Services Core Measure Set

A powerful new measurement tool launches October 1 to provide evidence-based, consensus-driven performance improvement in behavioral health.

This national leadership effort to improve the quality and safety of hospital-based inpatient psychiatric services has been made possible through the collaboration of hospitals, physicians, and consumers.

Americans with mental and addictive disorders deserve the best inpatient psychiatric care possible. These new measures are a critical step in meeting this goal. They will allow psychiatric hospitals to meet Joint Commission performance measurement requirements.
